Let me tell you a story:
The American Dream
A Collection of Stories of Immigration

Featuring:

María José Carvajal
María José Carvajal was born in Costa Rica and moved here when she was 17 years old. She loves behavioral and social sciences, speaks Spanish, English and a little bit of French and loves any form of art.

“Emancipate yourselves from mental slavery none but ourselves can free our mind.” - Bob Marley.

Ana Caceres-Colquehuanca
Ana Caceres-Colquehuanca is a current CFCC student born in Peru.

“Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be you dismayed: for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go.” KJV — Joshua 1:9

Rajah and Michael Amra
"The single story creates stereotypes, and the problem with stereotypes is not that they are untrue, but they are incomplete. They make one story become the only story." - Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie.

Victoria Chavez
Victoria Chavez is Puerto Rican, born and raised in the “boogie down,” the Bronx. A graduate from Purdue University Global with a Bachelor’s in Health and Wellness. She is the small business owner of PureLife Wellness Center in the Cotton Exchange and has the ambition to do transcendent things within the community. She is a wife, a mother and, of course, a proud Latina.

Tu Nguyen
Tu Nguyen is a current CFCC student. She will be graduating spring of 2019 and is continuing her education in International Studies at UNCW. Tu's American dream is to become an immigration lawyer in pursuit to fulfill many-other American Dreams.

Anh Em Phai Yeu Thong Nhau (translation: brothers and sisters must love and care for one another)